Conference Will Be Held Venue close to Washington, D.C. approved

WASHINGTON, D.C.: The big news here at TBR is that you—our readers—have shown such an avid interest in having TBR participate in a Revisionist history conference that we are now in the midst of planning what we hope will be—by far—the biggest Revisionist history conference ever held on American soil.

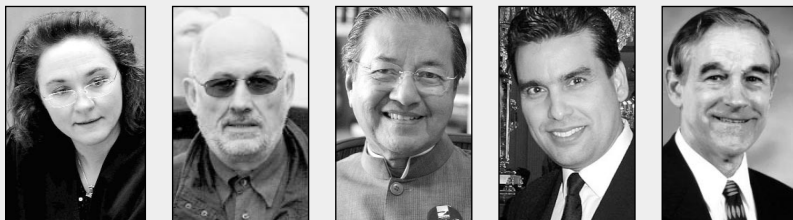

According to readers who responded from our recent announcements in the May/June issue of THE BARNES REVIEW and from our last newsletter, the preference was to have the conference on the east coast in the Washington, D.C. area. We are planning the conference for the Labor Day weekend.

If you are interested in getting more information on the conference as it becomes available, attending, or supporting the conference with a donation, please read the CONFERENCE FLYER enclosed. It's your invitation to the 2006 AUTHENTIC HISTORY, REAL NEWS & THE FIRST AMENDMENT conference.

We are also excited to announce that the no-nonsense journalists over at American Free Press are going to co-sponsor this event with us, adding their 45,000 readers to our list of possible attendees.

If all goes well, we will have more information about who has accepted our invitations to speak at the conference. The five mentioned below are just a handful of the great nationalist and populist thinkers, leaders, activists, authors, politicians and noteworthy figures to whom invitations are in the process of being sent. Stay tuned for more on the conference. Also take a look at the enclosed TBR BOOK CLUB flyer offering some great selections for 50% off.

People We're Inviting to Our 2006 Conference

A MESSAGE FROM WILLIS A. CARTO

TBR EDITOR AND PUBLISHER

ALL SUBSCRIBERS TO TBR KNOW the obvious fact that few things are more important to the future of this planet than historical Revisionism. This is why so much effort is being expended by our "traditional enemy" to punish Revisionists and intimidate others. It is so clear.

In this age of runaway liberalism and political correctness, one may hold any opinion at all, no matter how sick, perverse or subversive, and that is OK. But doubt the "holocaust" and, unless you live in the United States or a non-western nation, you will be swiftly jailed for such intolerable heresy.

The incarceration at this moment of good and courageous warriors such as Ernst Zuendel, David Irving, Germar Rudolf and the previous punishments of Fredrick Toben, Udo Walendy, Gunter Deckert and many others must inspire all men and women of good will to ceaselessly agitate for their speedy release. Let us remember that Prof. Robert Faurisson of France, one of the first courageous scholars to tell the truth about recent history, has branded historical Revisionism "the grand intellectual adventure of the 21st century." We cannot and must not forget our heroic fighters for truth, particularly while we still live in a country blessed by its founders with freedom of speech.

REVISIONISM: On the Front Lines

A synopsis of events affecting Revisionists and Revisionism across the world.

U.S.A.

Revisionism Conference. The big news this issue is the upcoming conference TBR is scheduling with Washington's weekly newspaper, American Free Press, which does to current events what TBR does to history—tell the suppressed truth.

The event is scheduled to be held over the Labor Day holiday, Sept. 2-4, with the venue in the Washington area. You'll be notified of the details very soon.

Be sure to attend this outstanding happening. We are inviting Revisionism's top personalities, not only from America but also from across the globe. Not only that, but this will be the time for you to socialize with old friends and meet many more. It will be the high point for historical Revisionism in the comeback we are making for historical truth instead of propaganda lies that serve only the enemies of mankind.

Iraq Revisionism: MSNBC, an all-news TV network, published on April 27 a survey of 90,135 visitors to its website on the question: "Do you believe President Bush misled the nation in order to go to war with Iraq?" The network, known for its non-WASP staff and anchors, even weathermen, had given the war very favorable coverage and regularly features interviews with stay-the-course-in-Iraq advocates. "Yes" was the response of 94% of people who answered the question.

9/11 Revisionism. Bush Defector to Demolish 9/11 Lies on May 6. The former top economist in Bush's Department of Labor, Morgan Reynolds spoke out on the 9/11 inside job at the State Historical Society, University of Wisconsin-Madison. Dr. Reynolds, who holds three U.W.-Madison degrees and who is currently professor of economics at Texas A&M University, presented evidence that top Bush administration officials orchestrated the controlled demolition of the World Trade Center, and the murder of almost 2,500 Americans, as a pretext for initiating their pre-planned "long war" in the Middle East.

FRANCE

All charges of holocaust denial were dismissed against the patriotic Front National's No. 2 official, member of the European Parliament Bruno Gollnisch, whose parliamentary immunity had been lifted for mildly saying, "The holocaust needs further study." Not finished there, however, the Lyons judge ordered charges filed against the presiding chairman of the Rhone-Alps region (in southern France), Jack Queyranne, as well as six other regional council elected officials. The judge charged the seven with having issued a council declaration condemning Bruno Gollnisch on October 14, 2005 without giving him any legal opportunity to defend himself.

Georges Theil, "holocaust" Revisionist currently still free despite having been condemned twice in Limoges to six months prison on each count of "negationism," as well as to enormous fines, is also battling prosecution in Lyons, France's second-largest city, over the crime of having answered truthfully a Revisionism question posed, on the understanding that it was "off the record," by a reporter for Mont Blanc Channel 8 TV. The reporter played it the next day, thereby making Theil, 63, suspected of "spreading holocaust denial"; the videotape of the clearly off-the-record interview then "disappeared" from the court's vault. Theil and his brilliant lawyer Eric Delcroix are battling back, citing these courtroom irregularities, against up to 12 lawyers for various Jewish and leftist organizations, with up to 40 schoolchildren brought in for the show. Zionophilic attorneys quoted from a front-page Le Monde article breathlessly reporting that the holocaust happened to a large extent by firing squads—this from a Catholic priest roving around Ukraine, for whom every corpse buried by Stalin is a Jew killed by Nazis. Theil's next hearing will be on May 18.

RUSSIA

The attorney general of Russia, V.V. Ustinov, gave his second nyet on March 16 to Jewish groups who had demanded he prosecute the signers of the "Appeal of the 5,000." (It can be found in English, French and German at Russia-talk.com.) It was launched originally in December 2004 by the fearless writer-historian M.V. Nazarov, head of the Moscow publishing house "Russkaia ideia" ["Russian Idea"].

Nazarov apparently does not know the meaning of the word fear. He has been crusading for years for indictments of specific Jewish communities over the disappearance of children, especially homeless children, particularly around the Passover season. Nazarov is now demanding answers in the case of five children in Krasnoyarsk, Siberia who, it seems, threw their own charred bodies into a dumpster. Jewish leaders blocked an autopsy by renowned medical examiners in Moscow, and got the Krasnoyarsk prosecutor to send (or claim he had sent) the bodies, at a cost to Siberian taxpayers of $200,000, to London for a "neutral autopsy."

In 2004, first 500, and later 5,000 Russian writers, publishers, intellectuals, poets, Russian Orthodox clergy and several generals, including "hero of the Soviet Union" and former world chess champion, Boris Spasski, had written the attorney general with extensive quotes from the Jewish religious text, Shulchan Aruch, a distillation of teachings from the Talmud. Quoting hair-raising examples of anti-"gentil-ism,” the 5,000 had demanded boldly that all Jewish associations should be banned under Russian law for “inciting ethnic hatred,” specifically ethnic hatred against Russians. Jewish groups immediately denounced the “Appeal of the 5,000” as “anti-Semitic” and demanded prosecution, harvesting now their second nyet. Most harmful to the Jewish cause had been an admission in the foreword to the Russian-language version of the Shulchan Aruch that outrageous passages had been removed from popular versions of the book, but that those interested in the full Hebrew version should “come to a yeshiva and find out.”

This marks the second favorable ruling by the Russian attorney general in favor of freedom of speech in this connection; another instance was when he ruled in favor of David Duke’s book Jewish Supremacism as a ‘factual document.’

The international, Russian-based Athenaeum group (www.ateney.ru), whose website is in 10 languages, is holding a June 8-10 conference with top world patriot speakers in race. In second place came Julia and her “Julia Timoshenko Bloc.”

Ukraine is fully one-third Russian in the east; half Russian in the center (around Kiev); and only in the west, near Poland and Belarus, is it more than two-thirds Ukrainian. In the wake of “oligarchs” ruining the Ukrainian economy and a resulting sharp rise in anti-Semitism, half of Ukraine’s 900,000 Jews have left the country for the United States and Israel; Jews comprise 1 percent of the 52 million population.

BELARUS

The president since 1994 of “White Russia,” Alexander Lukashenko, 51, was overwhelmingly reelected president for another seven years in March. Despite rough police tactics used on the rival forces of the “pro-Western” Alexander Milinkevich, Lukashenko is popular and would easily have won reelection without his police having lost their patience. Establishment media worldwide have picked up on five different stories in www.Pravda.ru indicating that 50,000 skin-heads now make life miserable for Russia’s illegal aliens. And, a further horror, 60 percent of Russians agreed in an opinion poll with the slogan “Russia for the Russians.” Quebec, Canada’s Exterminationist-controlled Le Devoir reported these findings in an editorial entitled “Sinistre Russie.”

UKRAINE

Many important developments:

The George Soros-backed president of Ukraine since December 2004, the “Orange Revolution’s” Victor Yushchenko saw his presidential powers drastically curbed last fall by the Ukrainian parliament. His incompetence and corruption, the millionaire playboy lifestyle of his son and his subsequent crash in the polls caused his key parliamentary ally (and former girlfriend), Julia Timoshenko, to pull out of his ruling coalition and resign as his prime minister.

In March 2006, George Soros/Victor Yushchenko’s “Our Ukraine” came in third in elections, behind the first-place “Party of Regions,” run by the openly pro-Russian, pro-Putin and himself ethnically Russian Victor Yanukovich, the man the Soros agent had barely bested in the 2004 presidential relentless opponent of corruption, Lukashenko is universally credited with having restored Belarus’s shattered post-Soviet economy at a time when neighboring Russia’s economy was crashing. A 2005 World Bank report judged that “economic growth in Belarus has been genuine and robust,” and the benefits have been widely shared among the population. Under Lukashenko, official unemployment stands at less than 2 percent, poverty has fallen, and the average monthly income is higher than in many other former Soviet republics, including Ukraine.

In a widely remarked December 1995 edition of the German business newspaper Handelsblatt, Lukashenko compared Belarus before his accession to power in 1993 to Germany before 1933 in a very Revisionist way:

“The history of Germany is somehow a copy of Belarus’s history at some point. At the time Germany was raised from the ruins thanks to a firm hand. Not everything that was connected to a certain Adolf Hitler in Germany was bad.”

He continued, “Germany was once built up out of the ruins with the help of a strong presidential force. Germany was raised thanks to this strong force, thanks to the fact that the whole nation united around its leader. Today we are going through a similar period, when we have to unite around one person or group of people in order to survive, hold out and get back on our feet again.”

ENGLAND

On April 12, patriot writers/activists Simon Sheppard and Luke O'Farrell, who run the Heretical Press website Heretical.com, were arrested in early morning raids in Hull in Yorkshire, northern England, by British police. Both were released later that day. The Heretical Press has again had all computers, hard drives and diskettes impounded; the police still have not returned the equipment and stock they took in their first raid on March 30, 2005. On orders from London, the police are clearly angling for the first-ever prosecution in British history for running (or contributing to) a politically unorthodox website.

POLAND

When the nation's once largest newspaper, Wyborcza Gazeta, was discovered to be under Zionist ownership, Polish word-of-mouth caused it to fall quickly from 1.4 million daily circulation to 400,000. Another paper, Nowy Dzień ["New Day"], was launched with massive billboard advertising and hoopla, but due to rumors that it too was Zionist-controlled, "New Day" lasted seven days.

GERMANY

ZUENDEL TRIAL. In the Ernst Zuendel trial, which like the German Rudolf trial is going on in Mannheim, in a black bunker-like structure, lead lawyer Sylvia Stolz was removed by force from the courtroom after weeks of denouncing the trial as an act of anti-German warfare by the (still) Allies, declaring that the German Reich was still legally in existence, and that the Federal Republic of Germany, with its courts, was merely "a legal modality of foreign domination." In this she caused great embarrassment to the court of Judge Ulrich Meinerzhagen, since the quotation originated from a 1949 speech to the postwar German parliament by none other than Carlo Schmitt, JD, a revered German legal scholar and one of the writers of the current German "constitution" ("the Basic Law," Grundgesetz) which created the "Federal Republic of Germany." (The gutsy Sylvia and her tutor, Horst Mahler, are being invited to TBR's conference.)

MAHLER STRATEGY. Patriot lawyer, intellectual, theorist and activist Horst Mahler, albeit disbarred for thought crimes in several cities such as Mannheim and Berlin, sits just behind the Zuendel legal bench in the public seating area of the courtroom, mentoring Juergen Rieger, Hamburg and Herbert Schaller, Vienna. Mahler, now 70, who illustrates to perfection the thesis of Spanish publisher Pedro Varela about most leftists being good potential nationalists, is a former violent leftist militant who came out of prison in the mid-1980s (with future chancellor Gerhard Schroeder as his lawyer) to make a hard right turn, becoming a giant of the German patriot scene. All the relentless legal tactics Mahler once pioneered on the left are now used to turn Establishment courtrooms into podiums for patriotic mass education and open defiance.

Example: Mahler's protégé Sylvia Stolz composed, in accordance with current "German" legal procedure, a written memorandum for the jury in the Zuendel trial stating that the trial of Ernst Zuendel was an act of war by the Allied enemy, and that under a September 1944 statute of the still legally existing German Reich anyone aiding the enemy by convicting her client could be subject, after the Reich's resurfacing, to the wartime death penalty. (The Allies, in fact, have never offered a peace treaty to Germany since crushing the country in 1945; Germany in 1991 signed a secret agreement that all the decisions of the Nuremberg trials still stood.)

This is the strategy of Mahler of Germany, Vincent Reynouard in Belgium and Varela in Spain: total disrespect for a blatantly illegal system, which is only a source of brute force.

RADICALS GROWING. "German" authorities are highly concerned about the increase in the number of young Revisionist Germans who deny that Germany was guilty of starting World War II or committing any "holocaust." Nor do these thought criminals accept that a "repentant" Germany should allow Third World immigration to overwhelm their cities.

Lower Saxony Interior [Police] Minister Uwe Schuene-

mann announced on April 27 that violent resistance to the State has gone from 776 acts in 2004 to 958 in 2005. Injuries to foreigners had risen from 640 to 816. The total number of what the government calls “right wing extremist crimes” had gone from 12,051 to 15,361. The increase in “propaganda crimes” was from 8,337 to 10,881; prosecutions had correspondingly gone from 2,578 to 2,957.

GERMAR RUDOLF. Meanwhile, Germar Rudolf, who was deported to Germany from the U.S., won a semi-victory in a recent federal immigration court ruling. Because he is married to an American citizen, he had the right to appeal earlier rulings against him. This, however, came too late for his deportation. Obviously, the Feds rushed him out of the country because his case, under INS rules, has merit.

AUSTRIA

GUDENUS. One year ago, April 26, 2005, Senator John Gudenus, 65, a member of the Federal Council of Provinces, was forced to resign by his own “patriotic” party, the FPO, for having declared the night before on Austrian television that the existence of homicidal “nazi” gas chambers was a matter to “verify.” Gudenus boldly continued, “We must not decree taboos. We must verify everything physically and scientifically.” Although the senator subsequently backtracked, saying there were no gas chambers only inside Germany, his parliamentary immunity was lifted on June 29 of last year. Exactly one year later, on April 26, 2006, he was sentenced to one year in prison, but released under the proviso that he not speak of such ideas again for three years.

DAVID IRVING, who like John Gudenus tried a recantation and was scarcely rewarded for it, has now sacked his leftist lawyer Kresbach and replaced him by an old lion who still has sharp claws, Herbert Schaller, who is also representing Ernst Zuendel at his trial in Mannheim, Germany. Irving is appealing in September his three-year sentence for holocaust debunking. Prison authorities had punished Irving for giving feisty prison interviews by ruling he could not even call his family unless he made a request one week in advance. Even this abuse was too light: it had been arranged that Irving be permitted to call his brother on Easter; the latter waited all day for a call which did not come until one week later, when he was out. Without free phone access, Irving has been unable to make arrangements or give authorization for the most urgent practical measures.

NO TRIALS. On the other hand, the Simon Wiesenthal Center (Los Angeles) just gave Austria a failing grade on their demands for trials of very aged “Nazis,” who are now in their 80s and 90s. Eastern European and Baltic countries also failed; the Federal Republic of Germany, the U.S. and Canada got high marks.

IRAN

Since November 2005, Iran's official Mehr News Agency has featured interviews with the following holocaust debunkers:

- Robert Faurisson, 76, of France, a retired professor of French literature and a "holocaust" exposé since the late 1970s. Faurisson portrayed the "holocaust" to Mehr as the basis for U.S. and allied military operations in the Middle East. "The more those in the West believe in the 'holocaust,' the more Muslims they will kill and cause to be killed in Palestine, in Afghanistan, in Iraq or elsewhere." (November 9, 2005)

- Paul Fromm, a white-rights activist and "holocaust" deflater from Canada who has championed the cause of Ernst Zuendel. Fromm explained Jewish control of Western media and governments (December 24, 2005).

- Fredrick Toben, a trained philosopher, "holocaust" debunker and Australian citizen of German birth who runs the Revisionist Adelaideinstitute.org, and was sentenced in Germany in 1999 to 10 months prison for "slandering the dead." Toben stated in his Iran interview, "Auschwitz was a transit camp." (December 28, 2005).

- Michael A. Hoffman II, an Idaho-based "holocaust" and conspiracy expert. Hoffman termed the "holocaust" "a religious cult masquerading as history" and "a means for Judaizing the West" (Jan. 24, 2006).

- Arthur Butz, a professor of electrical engineering, with a bachelor's and a master's degree from MIT and a Ph.D. from U. Minnesota, and author of the 1977 book, The Hoax of the Twentieth Century. He told Mehr News, "The alleged slaughter of millions of Jews by the Germans during World War II did not happen" (January 25, 2006).

The official website Iran-daily.com is not only questioning "the holocaust," but as of April 27, the official version of 9/11 as well. Observers do not totally dismiss mounting claims that Israel actually masterminded the 9/11 terror attacks in the United States with the covert aim of mobilizing the feared U.S. military, economic and political machinery against the pre-dominantly Muslim Middle East.

AUSTRALIA/IRAN

Fredrick Toben has been speaking out to the extent he can despite an Australian federal judge's "gag order" of Sept. 17, 2002: in freedom-loving Australia, he may not say the "holocaust" is a fraud. This does not stop Toben from pushing his limits; now he merely 'reports what others have said.' But Toben raised his profile a thousand fold when he flew to Iran to "report what others have said"—thus enabling his Iranian guests to have some real semblance of an "international holocaust conference."

Questioned by TBR Newsletter, Toben said: "There is the Australian Jewish News item about them going to the Federal Court to see if my activity is breaking the court order—it was almost two months ago, and I suspect that something could come my way at any time. I am lucky in that I don't care anymore if anything happens because if I see the Anglo-American-Zionists preparing to destroy such peoples as the Iranians, then that hurts me too."

SPAIN

On April 10, the fearless Catalan/Spanish Revisionist publisher Pedro Varela, friend and backer of other hunted Revisionists such as Leon Degrelle, Otto Remer, Gerd Honsik and many others, was arrested on charges of racism and genocide for the second time, in his native Barcelona. His entire office/bookstore was "cleaned out." Incredibly, the 1995 "genocide" law under which he was again arrested, making the front pages, is itself so faulty that his 1998 conviction under the same law has been suspended on appeal, to be reviewed by the Spanish Supreme Court, since 2000. But the law is still good enough for a re-arrest. Incredibly, this unique law says that it is "genocide" to deny that a "genocide" has taken place. The 48-year-old Varela is also accused of "endangering the international community" and "the interests of foreign states." THE BARNES REVIEW will carry a full, exclusive interview with this man who, Zion clearly believes, has super-powers.

On April 14-16, an elite, selective group of leading Spanish and other Revisionists convened in El Toboso (central Spain), members of CISNE, "a cultural association" ("Center for Sociological Investigations New Europe"). Historian/author Joaquin Bochaca spoke on his new book El Descrédito de la Realidad. ["The Discrediting of Reality."] (Bochaca's article on "Pius XII, the Pope of Peace" is upcoming in TBR.)

Revisionist counter-tactics: 1) Create many smaller organizations, not a few big ones. 2) Seek out and recruit new members, but be cautious of individuals who suddenly present themselves. 3) As soon as a Revisionist/nationalist association is banned, patriots in Spain create a new one. (In this way also, in Belgium, the large "Flemish Bloc" party, once banned, overnight became "Flemish interests.") 4) Spanish patriots must also be careful to avoid "spreading" the truth; all meetings must be private and "by invitation only."

More casualties: The "Centro Republicano Social's" leader, Juan Antonio Llopart, was indicted for racism in April and numerous books were seized. The "Librería Hispan" bookstore was closed and its owner fined.

Bochaca reports: "What is astonishing is the spirit of our people [in Barcelona]. In spite of the troubles, we have had only one defection out of seventy." ●

Chang: “History Will Judge Harshly Those on Wrong Side of this Battle”

Malaysian statesman predicts decline of Zionist-controlled Anglo-American empire unless policy changes made immediately

By MICHAEL COLLINS PIPER

In August of 2004 this writer had the privilege of being invited for a weeklong speaking tour in the Republic of Malaysia. At that time I had the additional honor of making the acquaintance of Matthias Chang, a highly regarded attorney, the former political secretary to recently retired Malaysian Prime Minister Mahathir Mohamad, one of the world's most outspoken critics of Zionist imperialism and its poisonous influence on U.S. foreign policy making.

Now, Matthias Chang has penned an important new volume, FUTURE FASTFORWARD: THE ZIONIST ANGLO-AMERICAN EMPIRE MELTDOWN, which American Free Press is making available for the first time which has now grabbed control of the military might of the American people, and urges the American people to rise up with other good people in opposition to these plutocrats and their bought-and-paid-for political henchmen.

This message is one that American patriots need to hear, particularly because it comes from an articulate voice from the Asian part of the world that is now rising to substantial power and influence in world affairs. The Zionist-controlled major media in America is deliberately and regularly attempting to stir up animosity by the average American against other nations around the globe that are populated with good people who see the dangers of Zionist power in America and in their own lands as well.

Matthias Chang loves America and

ever in an American edition, which—I’m pleased to say—is now reaching widespread distribution as a direct result of the enthusiastic response by AFP readers.

This is a book that—written from the point of view of a nonsense Malaysian nationalist—resonates fully with the thinking of every genuine American nationalist, indeed the thinking of every true nationalist in every corner of this planet. In fact, it can be said without question that FUTURE FASTFORWARD is a call for a global alliance of ALL nationalists against the Zionists and the international imperialists who are striving, every hour, toward their goal of achieving the long-dreamed-of New World Order.

Chang recognizes the role of the Federal Reserve money monopoly and the power of the gangster elites in the high-level power blocs that are seeking to reshape the world into a Global Plantation they expect to rule with an iron fist. He calls for all nationalists to stand together against this big money combine, the American people, and his message is one of hope—not desperation. Hope is something that Americans must cling to if we are to join together to break the back, once and for all, of the corrupt forces that are misruling our nation and driving the globe, on behalf of crazed Zionist extremists, toward nuclear war. I cannot recommend this volume more heartily.

The book has sold extremely well to readers of American Free Press newspaper, we are told, and TBR is now making a limited number of copies available to TBR readers. The price for TBR subscribers is $25 minus 10% (subscribers only) plus $3 S&H inside the U.S. (Add $6 per book S&H outside the U.S.) Send payment using the handy ordering form enclosed with this newsletter. What Was YOUR Turning Point?

We received many interesting responses to our invitation to join TBR staff and subscribers who had related in our first TBR Newsletter issue how they left the brainwashed herd and began to think for themselves.

LESTER LAURITZEN, Centerville, SD, TBR subscriber:

"I never needed turning around—I always faced the correct direction because my parents brought me up to only tell the truth, and I grew up in a solid, honest, Danish-settled town. So when people ask for my ID, even knowing perfectly well who I am, it is a gross personal insult. I have also been a compulsive reader since age 6. By the end of World War II, I had learned that Pearl Harbor was one of FDR's lies."

GERALD RITCHIE, Bunker Hill, IN, subscriber:

"My eyes were opened in June 2003 when a copy of THE BARNES REVIEW dedicated solely to 'the holocaust' [January/February 2001 Holocaust issue is available for $8 from TBR.] was placed in my hands. I was dumfounded by what I was reading. Afterward, I couldn't believe how otherwise intelligent people could ignore the points made there."

Although my funds are limited, now I spend every extra cent buying books to support the cause of TBR."

JAY MCFARLAND, Albuquerque, NM, subscriber (and perfect penmanship champion):

"First, I enjoyed the new TBR newsletter very much. Second, to answer your question, it was the sudden belaboring of Hitler and 'the holocaust' in the 1970s, 30 years after the war that alerted me. After the war, people came home, found a job and went to work without complaining about their 'lot in life.' We had fought Hitler (although we didn't know why), he had been defeated and had killed himself, and there was no reason to belabor 'Nazi Germany.'"

But 30 years after the war it all started up. I began to sense this was a 'Jewish thing.' Hitler this, and Hitler that, Hitler, Hitler, Hitler. I went out and bought his book, Mein Kampf. After reading Hitler's own explanation of the 'Big Lie' tactic, I realized that, far from advocating the use of the 'Big Lie,' Hitler condemned it as the ultimate Jewish technique. Never had I heard any talk show host say this. They all promote the lie that Hitler believed himself in using the 'Big Lie.' Now they have three or four cable channels that are "All Hitler All the Time" and their "museum" on every corner.

So my turning point was realizing the Big Lie about the 'Big Lie.'"

UPCOMING IN THE JULY/AUGUST TBR

Here are some of the stories our writers and editors are working on for the July/August issue of TBR. If you have an interesting article you have written—preferably 3,500 to 5,000 words—please submit it to the editor.

- The Mysterious Guru of the Neo-Cons
- Harrell Rhome Takes Another Look at Judas Iscariot
- End of the Empire: Matthias Chang on Imperialism
- Ancient White Tribe of Lower California Survived
- Spain's Varela Takes on the Police State
- New Hampshire's Pine Tree Revolt
- FDR Planned Use of Poison Gas
- Francis Parker Yockey's "World in Flames"
- The Wyoming Saga of "Cattle Kate" (Ellen Liddy

Watson, right): a legendary (but true) Wild West story from 1889 that has all of today's ingredients—Republican-controlled press, legislature, governor and president; big business against small homesteaders; a defamation machine and disappearing witnesses; and a crusade for honor and truth that still continues.

• Léon Degrelle's memoirs, Chapter 5: "Hitler for a Thousand Years"—the war France had sought erupts;

Degrelle is tortured, his followers bayoneted; Holland, Belgium and France are panicked and awestruck by Germany's lightning victories; Belgian PM Spaak believes the Third Reich "mistress of Europe for a millennium"; the supposed "collaborator" Degrelle returns home to find "huge pink German soldiers snoring in his bed." How will Germany carve up the new Europe?
